I spoke with the Agency's representative at the Defense Intelligence College to get a little background on this subject. He informed me that General Williams sent a limited number of these letters to senior Government officials (The Secretary of Defense, The DCI, and the Chairmen of the Congressional Intelligence Oversight Committees) and that the General is looking for an expression of support and endorsement to assist in establishing Foundation bona fides and legitimacy.

Honorable William J. Casey
Director of Central Intelligence
Washington, D.C. 20505

Dear Bill:

Since you are intimately familiar with the Defense Intelligence College and its present and potential contributions to the Intelligence Community, I am very pleased to inform you of our recent establishment and incorporation of the Defense Intelligence College Foundation.

The Foundation is designed to provide charitable and educational support--specifically to solicit, receive, administer and donate funds and property for the encouragement, support and furthering of the activities and traditions of the College in carrying out its critical intelligence education and training mission. A few of the longer term major projects which the Foundation plans to undertake are the establishment and funding of an academic chair, and the support of a distinguished-speaker program to enhance the academic program of the College.

The Foundation is the result of an initiative by a private citizen and former intelligence officer, Mr. William P. Grace III. He has succeeded in enlisting the support of several friends of Defense intelligence in the Washington area, and is actively pursuing the necessary organization and fund raising activities to support the endeavor. During this period of constrained Defense resources, this effort to support our premier strategic defense intelligence educational institution is most welcome. Our intelligence professionals deserve the extra support that only this type of foundation can provide.

A copy of the Foundation brochure, in draft, is enclosed for your information. We would be most appreciative of your personal endorsement of the Foundation. This will provide an enormous assist to us in establishing its bona fides.

Sincerely,

JAMES A. WILLIAMS
Lieutenant General, U. S. Army
Director

The Defense Intelligence College

The College, located at Bolling Air Force Base, offers the country's only fully recognized Master's Degree in Strategic Intelligence and also awards certificates for educational programs at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Students represent all the military Services, Federal agencies, and allied foreign governments.

1. Assist in the career development and training of military and civilian personnel assigned to intelligence functions;
2. Conduct academic research on topics of significance to present and future intelligence missions;
3. Prepare DoD military and civilian personnel for duty in the Defense Attache System;
4. Prepare DoD military and civilian personnel for command, staff, and policymaking positions in national and international security activities.

In the development of its resident programs and courses, and in the operation of its academic programs, the College emphasizes the necessity of keeping education current with rapid developments in economic, social, political, military and technological matters which might affect national security issues.

The Foundation was incorporated in the District of Columbia in 1985. It is tax-exempt under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Service Code. It is not a private foundation under Section 509(a) of the Code. The Foundation's purposes are charitable and educational—specifically to solicit, receive, administer and donate funds and property for the encouragement, support and furthering of the activities of the College in carrying out its mission. The Foundation does not function as a governmental activity, nor does it engage in political or lobbying activities.

A Board of Directors made up of interested Americans from a variety of professions oversees the affairs of the Foundation and passes on each of the projects supported. All are volunteers and receive no compensation for their services as directors.

Membership categories have been established: Corporate, Associate, Alumni, Life and Honorary. Funds also come from periodic unrestricted donations of other organizations and individuals as well as some specific donations in support of particular programs.

☐ Life Member $1,500 (one time donation)

C: Corporate Member $500 (annual donation)
